

Indianapolis Bar Association Continuing Legal Education Policies

Event Policy—To ensure the utmost accuracy in our reservation records, the Indianapolis Bar Association cannot accept reservations over the phone for CLE seminars, luncheons or other programming. Reservations must be delivered or mailed to the Indianapolis Bar Association office, faxed to (317) 269-1915, or emailed to iba@indybar.org. Reservations received less than 24 hours prior to an event and walk-in registrations cannot be guaranteed; they will be accepted on a space-available basis, will include an additional $5 charge and may not include lunch. Cancellations must be made 48 hours prior to the program to receive a refund. If no cancellation is received, payment is due in full. NOTE: CLE credit will not be reported to the Indiana Supreme Court Commission for Continuing Legal Education until payment for the course has been received in full. For arrangements due to physical disability, please call the Indianapolis Bar Association at (317) 269-2000.

Ownership and use of images and other intellectual property—All registrants, instructors, exhibitors and guests attending any Indianapolis Bar Association event acknowledge and agree (a) that they may be photographed and/or video-recorded during such event, (b) that any such photographs or recordings are solely the property of the Indianapolis Bar Association and (c) that the Association may publish, duplicate, and otherwise use such photographs, recordings and identifying information about the persons in the photographs and recordings to promote the Association and its services.

International Taxation: Update and Practical Considerations

This seminar will cover current events in international taxation from a practical perspective. Emphasis will be on topics and current developments that are of most relevance to legal tax practitioners.

Attendees will obtain an understanding in current trends in international taxation and key legislative developments with a focus on international taxation.

Attorneys that consider taxation as their primary focus with an emphasis on attorneys desiring a greater understanding of international taxation or that want to keep abreast of current developments in international taxation should attend.

About the Speaker

Todd C. Lady

Todd Lady is a partner with Taft Stettinius & Hollister LLP's tax practice and head of the firm's international tax group. His practice primarily focuses on the taxation of corporate and international transactions. He represents clients engaging in mergers and reorganization transactions involving both domestic and foreign participants. Mr. Lady's representation of non-U.S. clients includes providing advice with respect to the taxation of inbound investments and the structuring of outbound payments. He also has experience assisting U.S. clients with the rules applicable to controlled foreign corporations and passive foreign investment companies, planning for utilization of foreign tax credits and the implications of withholding tax provisions on outbound payments. In the domestic context, he frequently advises clients with respect to both taxable and tax-free business combinations as well as taxable asset purchases and dispositions. Mr. Lady received his B.S. from Purdue University and his M.B.A. from the University of Houston. He earned his LL.M. from the Georgetown University Law Center and his J.D. from the University of Houston Law Center.
